The Freedom Writers Diaries by Erin Gruwell*

When Erin Gruwell was a first-year high school teacher in Long Beach, CA, teaching the "unteachables" (kids that no other teacher wanted to deal with), she discovered that most of her students had not heard of the Holocaust. Shocked, she introduced them to books about tolerance. The students were inspired to start keeping diaries of their lives that showed the violence, homelessness, racism, illness, and abuse that surrounded them. (900L)

The Glass Castle by Jeannette Walls*

Jeannette Walls grew up with parents whose ideals and nonconformity were both their curse and their salvation. In the beginning, Rex and Mary Walls lived like nomads with their four children, moving among Southwest desert towns, camping in the mountains. As the dysfunction of the family escalated, Jeannette and her brother and sisters had to fend for themselves and finally found the will to leave home. (1010L)

Hiroshima by John Hersey

On August 6, 1945, Hiroshima was destroyed by the first atom bomb ever dropped on a city. This book, John Hersey's journalistic masterpiece, tells what happened on that day. Native Son by Richard Wright*

Native Son, published in 1940, tells the story of a young African-American man caught in a downward spiral after he kills a young white woman in a brief moment of panic. Set in Chicago in the 1930s, Wright's powerful novel is an unsparring reflection on the poverty and feelings of hopelessness experienced by people in inner cities across the country and of what it means to be black in America. (700L)

The Help by Kathryn Stockett

Jackson, Mississippi, 1962: where black maids raise white children, but aren't trusted not to steal the silver. As each woman finds the courage to cross boundaries, they come to depend and rely upon one another. Each in search of a truth and together they have an extraordinary story to tell. (730L)

Ender's Game by Orson Scott Card*

In order to develop a secure defense against a hostile alien race's next attack, government agencies breed child geniuses and train them as soldiers. Ender's skills make him a leader in school and respected in the Battle Room, where children play at mock battles in zero gravity. Yet Ender suffers greatly from isolation, rivalry from his peers, pressure from the adult teachers, and an unsettling fear of the alien invaders. (780L)

The Catcher in the Rye by JD Salinger*

Holden narrates the story of a couple of days in his sixteen-year-old life, just after he's been expelled from prep school. His constant wry observations about what he encounters, from teachers to phonies, capture the essence of the eternal teenage experience of alienation. (790L)

In the Time of the Butterflies by Julia Alvarez*

During the last days of the Trujillo dictatorship in the Dominican Republic, three young women, members of a pious Catholic family, who had become committed to the revolutionary overthrow of the regime, were ambushed and assassinated as they drove back from visiting their jailed husbands. Since then the Mirabal sisters have become known as las mariposas (the butterflies) from their underground code names. (910L)

The Last of the Mohicans by James Fenimore Cooper

Deep in the forests of upper New York State, the woodsman Hawkeye and his loyal Mohican friends Chingachgook and Uncas become embroiled in the bloody battles of the French and Indian War. The abduction of the beautiful Munro sisters, the treachery of the renegade Magua, the ambush of innocent settlers, and the events that lead to the final tragic confrontation create an unforgettable picture of life on the frontier. (930L)

Their Eyes Were Watching God by Zora Neale Hurston*

Their Eyes Were Watching God tells the life story of Janie, an African-American woman. Hurston's great dialogue captures both the ongoing "war of the sexes," as well as the truces, joys, and tender moments of male-female relations. But equally important are Janie's relationships with other black women. (1080L)

Level(s): Honors

1. Students should read the two required texts below.
2. Students should keep a reading journal on each text and be prepared to turn both journals in on the first day of school. In each reading journal, students should collect commentary and evidence for the following three areas: (1) text structure and form; (2) the ways in which the novel addresses aspects of American culture such as religion, gender roles, class, and economic stations, social change or justice, political power, science, etc.; (3) the ways in which the novel depicts the place/landscape of America in a real or imagined way, as well as how America interacts with other parts of the world.
3. Students should write an expository essay with the following prompt and directions in mind and be prepared to turn it in on the first day of school.
 - a. Prompt: Embedded in both required novels is social commentary, a critique of aspects of society, rooted in American culture. Write an essay that discusses how each text questions and/or reveals the ideals and/or values of America at the time of its publication, and whether their themes are still relevant in the 21st century.
 - b. The essay should consist of 1000-1500-words, include a strong thesis statement, and use direct references to both novels as support for all arguments. The essay must follow MLA guidelines: Times New Roman, 12-point font, double-spacing, 1-inch margins, in-text citations, and a Works Cited page.
4. In addition to the assessments listed above, there will be graded discussions on both texts during the first two weeks of school.

Level(s): AP Language and Composition

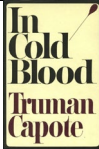

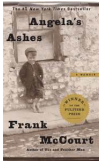

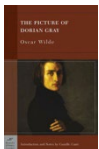

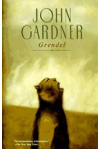

1. Students should read the two required texts below.
2. Students should keep a dialectical journal on each text and be prepared to turn both journals in on the first day of school. Dialectical journals have two columns and encourage active thinking about a text. On the left side, students should copy lines or passages they feel are stylistically important. On the right side, students should discuss the quote's impact on the work as a whole. In each dialectical journal students should discuss structure and form of the text, development of narrative voice, effective use of literary devices (such as diction, syntax, detail, tone, and imagery), themes and passages that develop those themes, or anything else they feel is relevant. It is okay to use "I" in journal responses, but students should keep in mind such a choice is only appropriate in informal journal responses. At a minimum, students should have 15-20 responses in each journal.
3. Students should choose one of the books and corresponding prompts below, write an expository essay, and be prepared to turn it in on the first day of school. The essay should consist of 1000-1500-words, include a strong thesis statement, and use direct references to the text as support for all arguments. The essay must follow MLA guidelines: Times New Roman, 12-point font, double-spacing, 1-inch margins, in-text citations, and a Works Cited page.
 - a. Prompt 1: Truman Capote claims to have produced the first "nonfiction novel" in writing In Cold Blood. Describe how the book blends the factual reporting of journalism with the narrative techniques of fiction writing, and the result of such a combination.
 - b. Prompt 2: There are many themes in F. Scott Fitzgerald's The Great Gatsby. Give some examples of how the author uses narrative techniques to develop themes throughout the novel and what Fitzgerald might be using them to say about American culture.

Invisible Man by Ralph Ellison*

The tale of a nightmare journey across the racial divide tells unparalleled truths about the nature of bigotry and its effects on the minds of both victims and perpetrators. As he journeys from the Deep South to the street and basements of Harlem, from a horrifying "battle royal" where black men are reduced to fighting animals, to a Communist rally where they are elevated to the status of trophies, Ralph Ellison's nameless protagonist ushers readers into a parallel universe that throws our own into harsh and even hilarious relief. Mrs. Dalloway by Virginia Woolf*

Mrs. Dalloway takes place over the course of a single day in a woman's life in 1920's London. There are flowers to buy, outfits to choose, but also a visit from a past lover, and the tragic fate of a young war veteran who cannot adjust to life in post-war London. Virginia Woolf's supple and mesmerizing account of an ordinary day draws the reader into the minds, perceptions, and emotions of an astonishingly varied and vivid cast of characters. Woolf reminds us that each day, hour, and even minute of our lives harbors the potential to transform us and those around us. (950L)
